DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' arguments, filed 8/4/03, have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either reiterated or newly applied. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

VAGUENESS AND INDEFINITENESS

Claims 51-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

This rejection is reiterated and maintained from the previous office action, mailed 2/4/03. Applicants argue by pointing to various phrases in the claims which contain the interpolation claim limitations but do not argue the basis for this rejection as set forth in the previous office action, mailed 2/4/03, regarding unclarity as to what interpolation practice is meant. None of the pointed to phrases in the claims specify what interpolation is meant but only cite the use of this unclear limitation. Thus, applicants' arguments are not directed to the actual basis for this rejection as set forth previously and therefore is maintained.

PRIOR ART

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 1631

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 51-53, 56, and 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) and (e)(2) as being clearly anticipated by Swift et al. (P/N 5,464,742) or, alternatively, under 35 U.S.C. 102(e)(2) by Anderson et al. (P/N 6,267,722).

This rejection is reiterated and maintained from the previous office action, mailed 2/4/03. Applicants argue confusingly firstly by listing canceled claims on page 9 of the REMARKS, filed 8/4/03. This apparently is a typographical error. The above claims listed above are assumed to be those argued by applicants regarding these prior art based rejections. Applicants then argue that Swift et al. lacks disclosure of interpolating between levels of cellular constituents as instantly claimed. In response applicants have not defined what is meant regarding their interpolating practice as to metes and bounds as noted in the above rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. Thus, the previously pointed to curve fitting of data in statistical methods being characterized as being for comparing profiles of cellular constituents is reasonably interpreted as an interpolation practice. Such comparing of response profiles as being interpolation were also confusingly argued in REMARKS, filed 8/4/03, within phrases to define what interpolation is in response to the above reiterated rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. See citation from instant claim 51 is said arguments regarding 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. Applicants then argue that the 95% confidence level in Swift et al. is determined in the statistical analysis of a population of test individuals rather than a statistical significance of similarity between a diagnostic and interpolated profile. In response, the curve fitting as part of the profile comparison is part of said statistical analysis and therefore does, in fact, incorporate the comparison as being interpolated in such curve fitting practice. It is acknowledged that the specific word "interpolated" is not cited in Swift et al., but that there is no distinction that has been argued or seen between the statistical analysis and curve fitting of Swift et al. and the instantly claimed interpolation practice.

Similarly, applicants have argued that Anderson et al. does not cite or utilize interpolation of profiles as instantly claimed. Equivalent to the response above regarding this argument no distinction has been instantly defined or even argued that specifies what the metes and bounds of interpolation are in the instant claims such that data analysis and/or curve fitting as in the reference for comparing response profiles is not included as an interpolation practice as instantly claimed. Also, the 95% confidence level is included in the instant claim practice regarding its usage in Anderson et al. for the same reasons as noted above for Swift et al. that it is utilized in analysis of curve fitting which is within a reasonably interpreted interpolation practice as instantly claimed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicants are reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

No claim is allowed.
